Class A	$101.00	0.99%

How did the Fund perform during the period and what affected its performance?

The Fund’s Class A shares outperformed the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Total Return Value Index USD (the “Index”) during the 12-month period ended September 30, 2025.

Against a backdrop of a steepening yield curve and tightening credit spreads, short end yields generally moved lower as long end interest rates rose, pressuring longer duration bond prices and reducing absolute returns during much of the period. However, the Fund’s outperformance relative to the Index during the period was driven by its shorter duration and its focus on opportunistic higher yielding sectors.

The Fund’s performance relative to the Index benefitted from tactical positioning in yield curve segments and security selection, and the Fund’s relative performance was positively influenced by its short duration bias versus the Index.

How did the Fund perform over the past 10 years?

The line graph below reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment and assumes the deduction of the maximum sales charge associated with that investment. The returns shown in the line graph and table assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on distributions or the redemption of Fund shares.
